GOVERNOR'S WIFE TAKES HIM TO POLLS

Mrs. Whitman Refrains, However, From Casting Her Ballot First.

MRS. AL SMITH RESPONDS

After Voting She Hustles Other Women to the Election Place.

Maybe it takes a political primary to of 219 East Twenty-eighth street, who was the first and most eager voter yesterday in the Sixteenth Election district of the Twelfth Assembly. At a late hour in the afternoon only thirty-nine women and an even smaller number of men had cared enough for the primaries to take the trouble to vote, but Mrs. Egan came into the little shop at 425 Third avenue soon after the polls opened, beaming behind the after places that New York places were mentioned by the expression of confidence in me by the enrolled members of the Democratic party. At this critical period of our country's history to be the candidate of the dominant party in the United States for the office of Chief Executive of the great State of Chief Executive of the great State of Gov. Whitman inquired particularly regarding its balloting in Albany county and expressed satisfaction with the vote he had polled there despite the opposition to his candidacy on the part of the local local organizations.

No returns were received at either the Republican or the Democratic State organization.

Praises Miss Fitssimmons.

Strong for the donkey are the women this district, apparently. The man nocratic captain modestly ascribed it to the lady Democratic captain, Miss Mary Fitzsimmons. She wasn't there, having gone out to round up voters, but he sang her praises gallantly.

"A fine lady and a good Democrat she is, and she lives in the house she was born in—lives in the house she was born in," he repeated solemnly, but without explaining the bearing that had on

The suffs had sent out questionnaires to all the candidates as to their attitude on the war and on suffrage, and had the responses posted up in the votes-for-women headquarters in all the boroughs. A good thing it was too, and many puzzled woman voters, availed themselves of it.
